Genki Sushi opened the doors to its second location in The Prado shopping center, right across from 5 Seasons Brewery. BUZZ got a preview of the delicious sushi and other dishes that are sure to please.

When you walk in to the new Genki location you are struck by one thing: bamboo. The floors are bamboo, the tabletops are bamboo, the walls are bamboo green, there is bamboo sculpture among the fish tanks that form the backdrop of the comfortable waiting area, and there are bamboo designs everywhere else you look. I bet the chopsticks are bamboo too. The second thing you notice is the backlit full bar just to the left of the entrance. The third, and definitely coolest thing you'll see at Genki's new location, is the jellyfish tank. The large marine aquarium towards the rear of the restaurant houses four jellyfish that pulse and flow in hypnotic currents.

Genki debuted a newer streamlined menu but it still offers plenty of variety to satisfy your noodle or sushi cravings. I definitely recommend the Super Crunch Roll. It features salmon, avocado, cream cheese, and then is tempura fried. It's crunchy, creamy, and just plain good. The edamame is wonderful and salty. The Spiderman Roll shows off the chefs' plating skills as a web of sriracha sauce forms an entertaining background for another creamy roll.

Genki's Prado location will be a solid lunch and dinner locale for anyone on the north side of Atlanta looking for a Japanese fix.
